Still on Job, They Saw First Labor Day

THESE TWO VETERANS of Marion's labor force have been celebrating Labor Day since the first one in 1882. They still report for work every morning and neither has plans to retire and "take it easy" for the present.

Not long ago many men remained on the job into their late 70's or early 80's. But company pension plans and federal old age benefits are rapidly thinning the ranks of workers over 65.

On the left is Otto Eibling, who at 80 may be the dean of Marion working men. He is a supervisor in the core room of the Huber-Warco Co., a job he has held since 1890. He and his wife make their home at 150 Charles St. He has two children and three grandchildren.

On the right is William H. Layman, 73, of 469 Uncapher Ave. A machinist at the Marion Power Shovel Co., he ranks first in seniority, not only in the machine shop, but in the entire plant. He was born in Marion in 1881, just one year before Labor Day became a national holiday. He has been at the Shovel Co. since July, 1898. He started his working career as a bellhop. He has two sons and a daughter.

Both men indicated they prefer to continue working rather than retire, although Eibling said he may "get around to retiring one of these days."

Soaring Traffic Fatalities Bring Forecast for Worst Labor Day Toll in History

Deaths in U.S. Top 300, Rise 63 in 2 Hours

Safety Council's Head Appeals to Motorists To Put End to Carnage

By The Associated Press

Traffic deaths took a sudden surge upward Sunday and safety experts said "this looks like the worst Labor Day weekend in history."

An Associated Press survey showed 242 killed in auto accidents, 29 drowned, and 36 dead in miscellaneous accidents for an overall death toll of 307 at 7 p.m. EST Sunday.

Two hours earlier, the traffic death toll was 179.

The California highway patrol headquarters reported that state's traffic toll during the first 42 hours of the holiday at 27, compared with 10 during the same period last year.

"Early indications pointed to a record number of deaths and recent figures are even more alarming," said Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council.

"This looks like the worst Labor Day weekend in history."

Dearborn said the fatalities now are more than 35 per cent higher than the number reported in a corresponding period during the last Labor Day weekend and more than 25 per cent higher than at the corresponding time over the July 4th weekend, both three-day holidays.

"And more frightening," Dearborn said, "is that past Labor Day weekends have shown that the traffic is heavier at the close of the holiday than at the beginning.

"Only the complete cooperation of every motorist can stop this

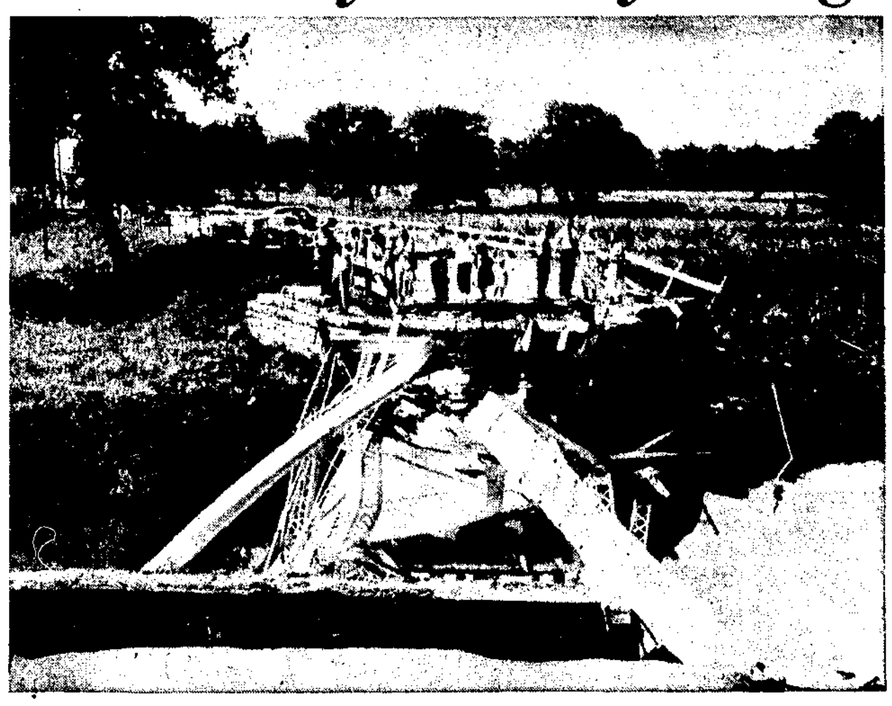
Car Destroys County Bridge



COLLAPSED BRIDGE ON Marion County Road 195 and the car which knocked it down are shown in these two views. Above is a view of the bridge looking toward the west. The car, shown below, was traveling east and struck the northwest corner of the bridge, knocking it off the supporting stone abutment visible at the far end of the bridge. The car came to rest about halfway across the bridge after both crashed into the Whetstone River.

Driver, 29, Injured; 6 Other Mishaps Investigated

A 29-year old Marion man was injured when his car crashed into and knocked down a steel bridge over the Whetstone River on Marion County Road 195 Saturday night.

It was one of four traffic accidents investigated in Marion County since noon Saturday by sheriff's deputies and state highway patrolmen from the Marion post. Marion police investigated three minor colisions in the city.

Bridge and Car Crash

Hurt when his car struck the bridge and crashed — with the bridge — into the shallow creek was William Parmer of 678 Marshall St.

Investigating state highway patrolmen said Parmer was driving east on Road 195 and failed to negotiate an S-curve just west of the bridge.

The left front end of Parmer's car struck the northwest corner of the bridge, state patrolmen said.

The impact knocked the corner of the bridge off the supporting stone abuttment and as the car continued its forward motion onto the bridge, both crashed into the river bed about 10 feet below.

After striking the corner of the bridge, Parmer's car apparently spun around or tipped up on its side and struck the south railing of the bridge as it collapsed into the river.

Value Over $40,000

Marion County Engineer Reed Ours set the value of the bridge at between $40,000 and $50,000. It was a steel beam bridge with a paved wooden floor.

Parmer was first taken to a doctor's office in Caledonia and was then transferred to Marion General Hospital. He suffered bruises of his head and body and possible internal injuries. He was reported in "fairly good" condition at the hospital Sunday night.

Each of the other three minor, no injury accidents in Marion County was investigated by sheriff's deputies.

One was a collision at W. Fairground and Leader Sts. at 8:23 p.m. Saturday. Involved were

Walkout Over At Bendix After Pact Is Signed

7-Day Strike Ended, 20,000 Will Go Back To Work in 5 Plants

DETROIT (AP)—A week-old strike of 20,000 Bendix Aviation Corp. workers was settled Sunday by the third labor - management agreement reached in Detroit in four days.

Like the other two—at Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. —the three-year Bendix contract follows the pattern set three months ago by United Auto Worker agreements with the Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp.

The feature provision of them all is a layoff pay plan to guarantee workers 60 to 65 per cent of regular take-home pay, including state unemployment compensation, for periods of idleness up to 26 weeks.

The Bendix settlement "meets in all respects" the auto industry pattern, said a joint company-union statement.

Terms of the pact include in addition to the layoff pay plan:

Wage increases of six cents an hour or 2½ per cent—whichever is greater—for all employes each of the three years, and an additional eight cents hourly for skilled workers.

Increases in pensions to give maximum benefits of about $250 a month, including social security.

U.N. Asks Cease-Fire

Both Israel, Egypt Accept Truce Plea

JERUSALEM, Sept. 4 (AP)—Israel and Egypt Sunday accepted a renewed plea by U.N. truce supervisors for a cease-fire along the taut Gaza border. Both made it clear they would retaliate if attacked.

Despite Saturday's outbreak of fighting, both countries insisted they were abiding by their cease-fire agreements last week. There were no reports of fighting Sunday.

Israel's stand was set forth in a letter from Arthur Lourie, acting director general of the Foreign Ministry, to Canadian Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns, U.N. truce supervisor. Lourie said Israel reserved "full rights of self-defense if attacked."

Stands by Agreement

In Cairo, Egypt announced simultaneously Burns had been informed the government stood by its earlier agreement to a cease-fire "provided Israel takes a similar stand."

An Egyptian spokesman said Egypt reserved the right to defend itself and Palestine Arab refugees in the event of new Israel "aggression" against Egyptian forces in the Gaza area.

Egypt's reply to Burns was released almost exactly at the 5 p.m. —10 a.m. EST—deadline he fixed Saturday when he pressed both sides for a positive answer.

The Egyptian spokesman said Cairo would tell Burns in writing that Israel had "opened fire and launched several aggressions against Egyptian armed forces and" Palestine Arabs since last week's agreement on a cease-fire. Nevertheless, the message to Burns adds, "Egypt still maintains its stand regarding a cease-fire as long as Israel keeps her part of the said cease fire."

Ordered Cease-Fire

The spokesman said if there is "further Israeli aggression, Egypt will take steps for the defense of herself and the lives of Palestine Arabs, resorting to methods sanctioned by law and respected by men."

Egypt ordered a cease-fire in the Gaza area Wednesday night, in compliance with Burns' original request. The following night Israel agreed to the proposal conditionally, declaring Egypt first had to halt military attacks.

But heavy artillery and mortar fire was renewed Saturday across the bloody border. Egypt also charged Israeli armored units had made two smash attacks on Egyptian outposts.

Lourie's latest letter to Burns reaffirmed acceptance of the cease-fire and said:

"I'm emphasizing that this includes a strict order to take no initiative in opening fire, crossing the demarcation line, attacking persons on the other side of it, laying mines with offensive intent or committing other forms of sabotage. I must make clear that no implication is accepted, or presumably intended, that Israel, like Egypt, has been guilty of the acts enumerated, for example of mine laying with offensive intent or sabotage. . ."

Logan County Family of Four Is Found Dead

Army Private, Wife, 2 Children Discovered in Car Near Bellefontaine

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Sept. 4 (AP)—Sheriff's deputies today found a young Army private, his wife and their two children dead in their car near the abandoned Cincinnati & Lake Erie Railroad line, about three miles northwest of here.

Dr. A. J. McCracken, county coroner, said the family had died of carbon monoxide poisoning, and had been dead three or four days.

The victims were Carl Howell, 21, on leave from Camp Chaffee, Ark.; his wife Carol, 19, and their children Debra Viola, 2, and Carl Bruce, 8 months, who had been living with Mrs. Howell's parents in nearby Belle Center.

Sheriff Fred Foerster said the case was apparently a murder - suicide. He said a hose led from the car's exhaust pipe into the tightly closed vehicle.

Foerster said the four were last seen at the home of Howell's father, Sim Howell, near Bellefontaine.

The sheriff said Mrs. Howell may have died before the pipe was set into the car, but the bodies had so greatly deteriorated this would be difficult to determine.

Sheriff Foerster said Howell had been a good farmer, but that having to go into the Army had "preyed on his mind." No notes were found to give a clue to the deaths, he said.

Ohio Gets Off to Early Start With 16 Fatalities

By The Associated Press

Traffic deaths on Ohio highways have put the state among the leaders in fatality in the nation on the long Labor Day weekend.

An Associated Press survey indicates 16 persons have died in Ohio since 6 p.m. Friday. One drowning death has been recorded, along with five fatalities from miscellaneous causes.

Three weekend accidents took the lives of two persons each.

These included the crash of a

Averages 610.726 in Trophy Race

Pilot From Illinois Wins Bendix but Misses Record

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Col. Carlos M. Talbott, Charleston, Ill., won the California-to-Pennsylvania Bendix Trophy race Sunday with a speed average of 610.726 miles an hour.

Talbott flew a supersonic North-American F100C jet fighter 2,325 miles from George Air Force Base, Victorville, Calif., in 3 hours, 48 minutes and 4 seconds. It was not a record for the event.

Last year Capt. Edward W. Kenny flew a Republic F84F Thunderstreak 1,900 miles from Edwards Air Force Base to Dayton, Ohio, in 3 hours and 1 minute and 56 seconds for a new Bendix record of 616.208 miles an hour.

Another F84F flew 2,445 miles from Los Angeles to New York last March in 3 hours 46 minutes and 33 seconds for a speed average of 652.520 miles an hour.

Third of Six Taking Off

Talbott was the third of six F100 pilots to take off from the California base shortly after noon EST.

Two of the planes had tire blowouts at McConnell AFB, Wichita, Kan., and withdrew.

Talbott was the first to cross the finish line although he had been third in the departure line.

He passed over the finish pylon at the International Aircraft Show at 4:09 p.m. EST, a full six minutes ahead of Capt. Wallace B. McCafferty, San Bernardino, Calif., who had been the second man to leave Victorville.

Second place in the Bendix race went to Capt. Alvin R. Mooreman, Wintersville, Ohio, pilot of the last plane to take off. Mooreman made the flight in 3 hours 50 minutes and 45 seconds for a speed average of 604.503 m.p.h.

Iowa Flier Third

Third place went to Lt. Col. Maurice G. Long, Emmetsburg, Iowa, with a time of 3 hours and 55 minutes and 16.6 seconds and a speed average of 582.893 miles.

The Bendix race concluded the day's show which began Sunday morning with the General Electric Trophy race between three Boeing B47 jet bombers.

A B47, captained by Maj. Leonard J. Stevens of Chicago, flew 2,237 miles from March AFB, Riverside, Calif., in 3 hours, 57 minutes and 59.2 seconds for a speed average of 589.294 m.p.h. to win the event.

The B47 finished the race with a crippled radar set and only enough fuel left for one pass around the field.

Communists' Artillery Shells Nationalist Island

TAIPEI, Formosa, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Nationalists said Communist guns at Amoy Sunday broke a quiet of more than a month by firing some 240 shells at the Quemoy area.

For nearly three hours, more than 20 Red batteries kept at it, the government's Central News Agency reported, until silenced by Nationalist counterfire. Nationalist Quemoy and Red Amoy are seven miles apart.

Says Age No Gauge of Skill

Ike Hits Discrimination Against Older Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a Labor Day message to America, President Eisenhower turned attention Sunday to the older workers. He said discrimination against hiring them must be eliminated.

The President said that denying jobs to workers "merely because they happen to be over 45 years of age" is "an arbitrary bar to the full utilization of their abilities."

Waste of Talents

He said it causes "a waste of valuable skills and talents."

Eisenhower said that on Labor Day this year all Americans are "humbly grateful for the twin blessings of peace and prosperity."

"We honor all the working men and women of this country who with their hands, hearts and minds have contributed so much to our national welfare," he said.

"Let us all thank God for our good fortune and move forward with confidence that with determination, ambition and tolerance we can make our country and our world a better place in which to live."

Released by Mitchell

Eisenhower's message was released by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, who said in a separate Labor Day statement that the nation's economy is "breaking through to new records of production, wealth and employment."

"Personal income has never been higher," Mitchell said. "The latest employment figures show that more than 65 million people are at work, making higher wages than ever before in history.

"And while wages are going up, prices are holding steady so that the American wage earner can buy

Husband and Wife Burn To Death in Eaton Crash

EATON, Ohio, Sept. 4 (AP)—A wife driving her husband to a hospital early today lost control of the car. It smashed into a ditch and caught fire. Both the wife and husband burned to death.

The victims were Maybelle Bowman, 58, and Harold C. Bowman, 49, of Rt. 1, West Alexandria. The accident occurred on Ohio 503 about for miles north of West Alexandria.

Their son, Kenneth, 17, was burned around the arms and face. He was taken to a Dayton hospital.

Bowman had been to a doctor at Lewisburg. The physician ordered his patient to a hospital and the Bowmans were enroute there when Mrs. Bowman lost control of the car.

Russian Farmers Irked At Reception in Canada

OTTAWA (AP)—The Russian farm delegates, bitter over reports that Toronto civic officials planned to ignore them, Sunday canceled a scheduled two-day visit to that city and sped to Ottawa from Niagara Falls.

Vladimir Matskevich, delegation leader, told a news conference at Vineland, Ont., near Niagara Falls, that the attitude of Toronto officials "contradicts our understanding of hospitality."

Indiana Crash Takes 5 Lives

2 Others Hurt Near Fulton; Car Hits Pole

FULTON, Ind. (AP)—Five persons were killed and two were critically injured Sunday when an auto veered out of control and struck an electric utility pole three miles south of this north central Indiana town.

The dead, all of whom lived in South Bend, Ind., some 45 miles to the north, were Ray C. Wittenburg, 60; his son, Arthur Ray, 17; his grandson, Juel Starkweather, and his two granddaughters, Charlene Starkweather, 10, and Helen Lucille Starkweather, 11. Those critically injured are Wittenburg's daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Starkweather, mother of Juel, Charlene and Helen, and another of her sons, Ray, 13.

State police reported that the impact cut the car in half and threw the front half about 40 feet from the rear.

The group had started out two hours before the crash for a Labor Day weekend jaunt.

The victims, all members of one family, were en route to a family reunion, state police said.

Mrs. Starkweather was a daughter of the elder Wittenburg.

Egypt Admits Offer of Arms

Deputy Premier Says Soviets May Get Order

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Deputy Prime Minister Gamal Salem of Egypt confirmed here Sunday that Russia has made an arms offer to Egypt.

Salem, who arrived here Sunday from Rangoon on a 17-day good will tour of India, told reporters that if European countries are not going to fulfill their promises and contracts for the supply of arms, Egypt has no alternative but to accept Russian arms. Egypt has not received any arms so far, he added.

Salem categorically rejected a mediation suggestion to solve the dispute with Israel, declaring: "We are not accepting any mediation."

Each of the two remaining accidents in the county involved only one car. One occurred at 11:40 p.m. Saturday on Marion County Road 107. Sheriff's deputies said John E. Millisor, 34, of 363 Milburn Ave. was traveling north and failed to make a turn onto Marion County Road 106 and his car skidded into a ditch.

The other occurred a short distance away at 1:55 p.m. Sunday when a car driven south on Marion County 107 by Harold Simpkins, 22, of 381 Scranton Ave. failed to make a turn onto Marion County Road 106 and skidded into a red reflector warning sign on the north side of Road 106.

Ohio Bell, Union Plan To Continue Negotiating

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4—(AP)—Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and the CIO Communications Workers recessed negotiations tonight and will resume them tomorrow morning in an effort to avoid a threatened strike of 16,000 telephone workers.

A company spokesman said there was "some progress" in the talks, but declined further comment.

The union declared a "state of strike" after a deadline passed at midnight Friday. However, no specific time for a walkout was set.

The union is seeking a substantial wage boost, but has not made public its specific demands. A company offer of a $1.50 to $4 weekly general increase was rejected.

The union agreed to call off the strike immediately, making way for a return to their jobs Tuesday after the Labor Day holiday.

The strike began at midnight Saturday a week ago at plants in Detroit, South Bend, Ind., Elmira Heights, N.Y., Teterboro, N.J., and North Hollywood, Calif.

Negotiators had stayed in almost continuous session since 11 a.m. Saturday.

Government statistics show that the nation's population aged 45 or more is growing spectacularly. It was 3½ million in 1900, 22 million in 1920, 42½ million in 1950 and 46,700,000 this July.

The Census Bureau estimates this figure will grow to 63 million by 1975 that by then — two decades from now—the citizens aged 45 or more will compose approximately half the adult population.

carnage short of an all-time high.

The council estimated that the traffic death toll will be 400 during the holiday period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday. The record traffic death toll for a Labor Day weekend was the 461 in 1951. The record number of traffic deaths for any holiday period was in the four-day Christmas holiday period in 1952. The toll then was 556.

The Associated Press, in a survey for a three-day nonholiday weekend, Aug. 19-22 this year, counted 365 traffic deaths.

One of the grimmest traffic mishaps occurred Sunday near the north central Indiana town of Fulton. There, a car laden with seven persons out for a holiday struck a utility pole, killed five persons and critically injured two others.

Marion Boy Wins at Fair

FIRST PRIZE in a model airplane exhibition at the Ohio State Fair was won by a 13-year-old Marion boy. Shown here with the winning model, a trophy and a blue ribbon is the builder, Thomas H. Clark III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Clark Jr. of 263 Summit St. The model airplane is a replica of the famed Spad 13 flown by Capt. Eddie Richenbacker in World War I.

Young Tommy drew all the plans for the plane from drawings and photographs contained in a magazine. Complete in every detail, the plane is on a scale of three-fourths of an inch to one foot and contains a miniature control stick, rudder pedals and instrument panel in the cockpit, a miniature windshield and removable engine cowling so that the engine may be inspected.

Not a flying model, the plane is for exhibition only. Tommy has been building model airplanes for five years and last year also won a prize for his entry at the state fair. It was a replica of a German Fokker, also of World War I fame.

Youth Goes on Shooting Spree

Iowa Boy, 16, Is Accused In Murder, Kidnap Case

ALLISON, Iowa (AP) — Ronnie Loughlin, 16-year-old Sioux Falls, S. D., high school boy, was enroute home Sunday night to face charges of murder and kidnaping growing out of a Saturday shooting spree.

Young Loughlin surrendered to two Iowa highway patrolmen late Saturday night after a wild afternoon and evening during which, police said, he:

1. Shot and killed a woman neighbor in Soux Falls and tried to kill his grandmother.

2. Kidnaped a Sioux Falls housewife and forced her to drive him eastward into Minnesota and Iowa.

3. Terrorized a Luverne, Minn., farm home, where he stole some clothing.

4. Created an uproar in Emmetsburg, Iowa, where he threatened to shoot a man who questioned him after he and the kidnap victim had stopped at a service station, then sped out of town—alone—as authorities were being alerted.

Got Tired of Running

Loughlin, son of a Sioux Falls taxi driver, later surrendered quietly near here. He said, "I got tired of running and decided to give myself up." He told police a dispute over a gun led to the shooting.

At a hearing before District Judge Harvey Uhlenhoop at Hampton, Iowa, Sunday afternoon, Loughlin waived extradition. He left for South Dakota with two officers from that state after the hearing.

Warrants were issued in Sioux Falls, accusing him of the fatal shooting Saturday of Miss Johanna Espetwedt, 22, Sioux Falls secretary, and the abduction of a woman.

Purchases Revolver

Sheriff Pete Boomgarden questioned the youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Loughlin. He said the youth, in an incoherent statement of events, told of recently purchasing the gun, a .32 calibre revolver, from a friend.

Detectives in Sioux Falls said Ronnie, who was 16 last week, had Jerry Hagen, 18, buy the gun for him for gopher hunting.

Hagen, apparently concerned because Loughlin was under the legal age to own a gun, and a companion went to the Loughlin apartment Saturday afternoon to get the weapon.

Hagen and James Woler, 16, his companion, and Ronnie watched a baseball game on television, then went to another room where the gun was kept.

Acted Strangely

Hagen and Woljer said Ronnie began to act strangely and refused to put down the gun.

Loughlin told officers he fired one shot and saw it break a plate. He said he shot at his grandmother, a Mrs. Harris, as she ran from the living room, but missed.

Clad in pajamas and barefoot, Ronnie fled from the apartment and shot Miss Espetwedt as she appeared at her apartment door to investigate the shootings.

A bullet struck her in the head and she died a short time later at a Sioux Falls hospital.

"I took the first car I came to after leaving the apartment," he said.

Feigns Illness

The car was driven by Mrs. Myrtle Raabe, 45, Sioux Falls, who was returning home from work. He forced her to drive to Emmetsburg, Iowa, where, feigning illness, she got Ronnie to stop at a service station.

Mrs. Raabe took refuge in a rest room and the youth drove off after threatening another couple, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Curry of Darlington, Wis., who also had stopped at the station.

It was while driving from Emmetsburg that Ronnie decided to give up. "I didn't care whether I was caught or not," he said.

Authorities said he bought a tank of gas with a bad check at Shell Rock and drove to nearby Clarksville.

At a combination grocery store and lunch room he had a hamburger and a malted milk, then called the highway patrol.

"I've done something and I want to give myself up," he explained to Mildred Smith, the patrol radio operator.

When picked up, Ronnie was dressed in dungarees, brown sports shirt and blue suede shoes which he had taken at gunpoint from Mrs. Arlyn McClure, Luverne, Minn., farm wife.

Patrolmen said Ronnie was well-mannered and appeared to be "somewhat remorseful."

The youth was described as an "A" student in school and only recently got in serious trouble for the first time. Sheriff Richard Miller of Emmetsburg said Sioux Falls officers told him.

Ronnie was under psychiatric care after being involved in a theft, Miller said.

A two - car accident Saturday night near Cleveland killed Clifford E. LaJouness, 34, of Eastlake, and fatally injured his father, Charles, 79.

Maybelle Bowman, 58, and Harold C. Bowman, 49, of West Alexandria, burned to death in their car after it went into a ditch and caught fire four miles north of West Alexandria.

Two youngsters died under the wheels of family vehicles in mishaps near their homes. They were Brian Congdon, 1½-year-old Cincinnati boy, and James Ray Dixon, 10-month-old boy from Powder Lick in Clinton County.

Philip O. Byrd of Xenia drowned in Lake Cowan. He had been fishing.

The state highway patrol put all available men on duty on highways in an effort to keep down the accident toll.

Sheriff's Office Arrests 2 Men Following Fight

Two Marion men were arrested Saturday night by sheriff's deputies after they reportedly engaged in a fight outside a W. Fairground St. restaurant.

Jack Robinson Jr., 20, of 194 Edwards St. and Arnold D. Johnson, 19, of Fountain St. were charged with disturbing the peace. They are to appear in Municipal Court later for hearings on the charges against them.

Sought Break in 4 No-Holiday Months

Union Official Invented Labor Day Back in 1882

By DAVID BARNETT

WASHINGTON (NANA) — Happy to have a long weekend of leisure?

Thank Peter Maguire, the man who decided four months was too long without a holiday and did something about it.

That was back in 1882. Maguire, secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, counted the days between July 4 and Thanksgiving and came up with the first Monday in September as Labor Day.

Congress did not get around to making the holiday official until 1894, but union leaders of those days were accustomed to a snail's pace in making "progress."

Labor groups had only about 800,000 members in 1882. A run-of-the-mill worker got about 12 cents an hour for a 60-hour week. If he got sick or injured, he was out of luck; workmen's compensation and health and welfare programs came much later.

Latest Labor Department figures indicate the average factory worker now takes home about $1.75 an hour. He works less than a 48-hour week and is protected by a variety of government, industry and labor welfare plans.

Now Big-Time

In the 73 years since Maguire fathered the holiday, unionism has become a big-time operation. The merger this year of the American Federation of Labor and the Council of Industrial Organizations will put most of this country's 17,000,000 workers into one, rather loosely integrated, organization.

The rising union leader in 1955 is a well-educated executive dealing with sums of cash and numbers of workers even larger than those directed by some of the biggest captains of industry.

Back in the 1880's, a British cigar worker, Samuel Gompers, emerged as the top labor leader in this country and built the AFL into the dominant labor organization in the U. S. It was a craft union, cutting through industries to put into one organization those of similar skills.

In the 1930's, the CIO began developing mass organizations by signing up all workers in an industry in a single union.

Control Became Issue

Labor unions became so potent an economic force that government stepped in, first to nurture and then, to some extent, to control.

Gompers kept labor away from entangling alliances with any political party. Labor today is in politics to stay. To the modern labor leader, unions in politics is a natural result of government action in the field of labor relations. Like trade associations, labor unions have learned that you get sympathetic legislation by influencing elections.

The amount of money that a merged labor movement potentially could throw into an election contest has prompted a stiff anti-labor-in-politics movement. There have been congressional demands that union spending on politics be strictly controlled.

But the main signs of labor's political power this holiday will be the words of praise from politicians at numerous picnics.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

One Summer Evening

I was thumbing through a TV magazine recently to see what was afoot on television on a pleasant summer day. You want to know what was afoot? Well here are just a few of the thumbnail plots of TV shows that occupied the air all within a space of a few hours.

JOHN CROSBY

"Dangerous Encounter. Robert Cannon accepts an invitation to a noble Spanish house for a political story but finds his headline written in poison."

"First Run Theater. 'A Time To Kill.' A young chemist phones his doctor when he realizes the drinks he and a woman guest are having contain poison."

"The Whistler. Too much ambition drives a successful businessman to crime."

"Stage 7. 'End of the Line' with Maria Riva. Story of a girl marked for death. She has furnished an alibi for a man who has committed homicide and subsequently, the guilty one, fearing she may some day reveal the secret, orders her death."

"Mr. and Mrs. North. 'On the Rocks.' Story of a noisy murder on a quiet weekend."

"City Detective Story about the blackmailing of kindly aunt and a man who plays a dangerous double game."

"Loretta Young Show. It is the story of a woman left alone in a desolate weather station on Cape Cod and her encounter with an escapee from a mental sanitarium."

"The Hunter. Crime drama starring Barry Nelson."

"Inspector Mark Saber. 'Hanging Husband.' A man's accusation that his wife and her lover are trying to murder him seems exaggerated."

"Surprise Theater. 'I Killed That Man.' Story of young D.A. who tries to get the goods on a prominent politician suspected of murder."

"Summer Theater. A private detective is hired as bodyguard by the beautiful wife of a gangster who fears her husband is trying to kill her."

THAT'S JUST A SAMPLE of the fare offered on a single summer evening. It does seem a trifle excessive, doesn't it? Frankly, I think it's been too hot a summer for all that homicide. Homicide is winter sport, my mother always told me. Summertime, you should do quieter things like boating and maybe a little embezzlement.

Summertime is also the time for love and I'm happy to report that there is plenty of that going around. The summer breezes soften the authors' hearts and just possibly their brains a little bit. I have recently watched two plain love stories that were so entirely unadorned that I began to wonder how they were going to spin them out for an hour.

In one of them, "Spring Reunion," on Goodyear Playhouse, a girl discovers that it's pleasanter lying in a young man's arms than going golfing with her father, a revelation that I thought came to most young ladies the day they were born.

IN THE OTHER ONE a hayseed from North Central City, Iowa, woos a young lady in New York who harbors ambition to be a model and who thinks love is for amateurs. It's his ambition to bear this lass off to North Central City, Iowa, to help out in the hardware store. She resists this proposition strenuously, interminably, and in the end, successfully. He wins the girl all right but he has to sell his hardware on Eighth Ave. instead of Iowa, a terrible price.

Well, it's nice to see love triumph in this straight-forward, uncomplicated way, though I don't think either of these dramas is headed for the Nobel Prize. Love is not a complete substitute for conflict.

Incidentally, Richard Kiley, who played the Iowa lad with great charm and authority, equipped himself with an accent which, I imagine, would make native Iowans wince. They're not quite that corn-fed, even in Iowa.

Britain Boosts Its Use of Oil

LONDON (UP) — Britain is on the threshold of an "oil age" which will bring about another industrial revolution years before supplies of atomic energy become a major part of the power market. Sir Leonard Sinclair, chairman of Esso Petroleum, Ltd., said in an interview with United Press.

He said the recent agreement signed with the British Central Electric Authority whereby Venezuelan fuel oil will replace coal as the fuel for seven major power stations in Britain was an "important step" in that direction.

"British industry has been moving in this direction for some time," he added, "but this step is a giant stride. Our own plans and those of other oil companies to meet the expanding market for energy makes the outlines of the approaching oil age very clear, and it will be many more years before atomic power will change this."

The agreement between Esso and the Authority believed to be the largest consumer contract for oil ever signed, provides for the delivery of nearly 30,000,000 tons of fuel oil over a 10-year period at a price pegged to the price of coal.

"Our present and future sources of energy—coal, hydro-electricity, atomic power, and oil—are more supplementary than competitive," he said. "There is a steady increase in industrial production in Britain and a consequent increased need for power which coal is not meeting and which is much too near for atomic energy to meet.

"Last year, Britain's total energy consumption was equal to 250,000,000 tons of coal, of which coal actually provided about 86 per cent and petroleum 14 per cent. In 1964, energy consumption will be up to 295,000,000 at least.

"Atomic power in 10 years' time will release the equivalent of about 5,000,000 tons. Even if coal production is increased, Britain will need about 280,000,000 more barrels of oil per year for industrial energy by 1964.

"This demand will be on the entire petroleum industry, and it will continue to increase in future years until atomic energy can make its proper contribution. But atomic energy will not replace oil and coal in the foreseeable future any more than oil will completely replace coal. It will supplement existing forms of power.

"The last industrial revolution was founded on coal, tomorrow's prosperity will depend largely on oil."

Inhalator Call Answered

One inhalator call was reported by the city fire department, Sunday night.

The inhalator squad was called Saturday at 3:45 p.m. to the home of Mrs. Mary L. Modenwell, 43, at 217 Bain Ave. where she was suffering from an illness. The inhalator was operated for 10 minutes successfully.

Forecast Sees Big Expansion In Steel Output

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 50 per cent increase in steel producing capacity during the next 15 years is forecast by "Steel," the metalworking weekly.

This would be an average of four million tons a year, twice the average rise record during the last 40 years which included the World War II and Korean War periods.

The expansion, which "Steel" says will require an expenditure of at least 15 billion dollars for plant facilities, already is under way. But demand for steel is strong enough to prompt some mills to start making preliminary allotments for the first quarter of 1956.

The biggest surge, however, is expected in the early 1960's when persons born during the high birth rate 1940's start establishing homes.

Steel production last week rose 2.5 points to 92.5 per cent of rated capacity. This was due in part to restoration of output in the flood-stricken northeastern states.

The trade magazine estimates that production of ingots and castings this year through the end of September will total 85½ million tons compared with 88,311,652 tons produced through all of last year.

"Steel's" price composites last week were unchanged at $127.41 a net ton on finished steel and $43.83 a gross ton on steelmaking scrap.

New Yorker Tries, Fails in Attempt To Span Lake Ontario

TORONTO (AP) — Only 1½ miles from his goal, Wesley Strubble, 29, an appliance salesman from Rochester, N. Y., collapsed from exhaustion and the cold water and had to be pulled out of Lake Ontario Sunday.

The New Yorker was attempting to become the first man to complete the 32-mile swim across the lake from Youngstown, N.Y., to Toronto.

Last year, 16-year-old Marilyn Bell of Canada became the first person to conquer the lake, accomplishing the feat in a little over 21 hours.

Strubble passed out after swimming for 19 hours and 35 minutes. He regained consciousness in the accompanying launch 15 minutes after his limp body was hauled out of the water.

ONE MOMENT PLEASE

In spite of the fact that every Axe Funeral procession is properly identified (police escort, stickers, flags), hurrying motorists often unthinkingly break the line. As additional identification the Axe personnel feature burning headlights on all cars. When you recognize these identifying marks, the bereaved will appreciate your courtesy and respect.

Arabs Oppose Israel's Drive For Population

Million New Citizens Is 10-Year Goal; Fears Of Aggression Raised

JERUSALEM (NANA) — A concentrated effort by Israel to lure 1,000,000 new citizens to her borders in the next 10 years is one of the underlying causes behind Arab hostility toward the young republic and the current undeclared war in the Gaza Strip.

Arab critics of Israeli "expansionism" consistently point to Israel's international propaganda drive for new immigrants as indisputable evidence of the tiny democracy's intention of widening her borders at Moslem expense—a fact, they claim, that fully justifies Arab attempts to beat her to the punch.

Arab spokesmen maintain that further settlement of new immigrants within her narrow borders being an economic impossibility, Israel's policy of unlimited absorption must eventually lead to a military adventure into Arab territory. They add that if Israel can afford to stump the four corners of the globe for new citizens, the 800,000 Palestine refugees in her own back yard must come first.

Despite firm refusals to repatriate Arab refugees, Israel insists she faces a serious manpower shortage. Her 2,000,000 population, doubled between 1947-52 by the absorption of 750,000 postwar Jewish refugees, falls far short of the number needed to set long-range agricultural, technical and industrial development planning into operation.

Uninhabited Wasteland

The vast Negev, with the exception of a few isolated frontier outposts, remains an uninhabited wasteland. Plans to irrigate its parched soil with water from the Yarkon River near Tel Aviv, will be of little value, claim Israeli spokesmen, without the estimated 500,000 pioneers needed to settle it.

The expatriated Arab refugees are definitely not the answer as far as Israel is concerned. The government has stood pat on its assertion that their voluntary exodus from Palestine between 1947-49 was the direct result of a six-pronged Arab attack on Israel in 1948 in defiance of the U.N. partition decision. The seven years of border agitation that followed the war, assert the Israelis, have voided any claim the Arab states hold for their repatriation.

American diplomatic representatives, in their attempts to soften Israeli resistance to Arab repatriation, are usually faced with the same unanswerable Israeli reply—"What would the American people think of a plan calling for the settlement of 800,000 Russian Communists within the borders of the United States?"

Seeks Immigrants From West

Israel has been aiming her biggest propaganda guns at prospective immigrants from the Anglo-Saxon and West Europen nations. Present immigration, now coming almost exclusively from North Africa has stirred fear within the hearts of high government officials that Israel may eventually go the way of a Levantine state. While not discouraging North African and Oriental Jewry, she has been attempting to balance the ethnic population scales with a parallel drive for Western immigration.

Israel's efforts to this end have met with extremely limited success. Latest figures put the Anglo-Saxon percentage of the population at 2.2. Even the most optimistic government propagandists see little chance of a measurable rise within the near future unless the Middle East situation becomes stabilized and living standards in Israel are drastically lifted.

Thousands of enthusiastic young Americans, Canadians and Britishers who came to Israel between 1947 and 1952 with the intention of remaining have since returned home. Disgruntled with food shortages, blocked currency regulations, the inability to rent overpriced apartments, government red tape, discomfort and just plain boredom they left Israel with a sense of having been taken in by far-fetched advance claims seeking to convince them of the relative similarity between Anglo-Saxon and Israeli living standards.

The Israeli government has since made strenuous efforts to correct the damage done. Realizing that its future may well depend on educated, technically and professionally trained Western newcomers, the government has undertaken a campaign to provide low-cost housing for them on a par with standards taken for granted in New York, Montreal and London. Currency regulations have also been adjusted to benefit them.

Israel now is waiting for the long-range fruits of her efforts to induce this much-needed Western immigration.

While the spectre of a second round with her Arab neighbors looms darker than ever on the Middle Eastern horizon, Israel's North African and Oriental immigrants continue to stream in at the rate of 3,500 a month. They are expected to provide the settlers for her dangerously underpopulated Negev and the backbone for her understaffed security forces.

Nevada Couple To Mark 50th Wedding Year

NEVADA — In celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary, Sept. 6, Mr. and Mrs. Emry Bunnell of Nevada will hold open house at their home on Sunday, Sept. 11. The celebrants will receive friends and relatives between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

Mrs. Bunnell is the former Hannah Jane Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Campbell of Brush Ridge and was born April 5, 1879. Her marriage to Mr. Bunnell took place Sept. 6, 1905, in the home of the bride's parents. Officiating was Elder J. C. Reed of Blanchester, O.

A native of Wyandot County, Antrim Township, Mr. Bunnell was born June 1, 1881, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bunnell.

The celebrants resided in Wyandot and Crawford counties while Mr. Bunnell was a farmer. In March, 1954, he retired and the couple moved to Nevada. They are members of the Primitive Baptist Church at Brush Ridge and Mr. Bunnell served as church clerk for over 30 years. He also is a member of the Grand Prairie Cemetery Association.

The Bunnells are the parents of five daughters. They have nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Mrs. Bunnell has two brothers, E. S. Campbell of Morral and J. W. Campbell of LaRue, and one sister, Mrs. Emma Bunnell of Marion.

Following the open house, the immediate family will have a supper at the Bunnell residence.

Retiring Miss America Seeking Career on Stage, Not Marriage

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Miss America of 1955 says she will stay single. Well, at least until she's given her acting career a real try.

Lee Ann Meriwether said that romance is "a thing of the distant future — now all I want to do is work hard at becoming an actress."

Although her reign as America's beauty queen is almost over, Lee Ann says her lifetime dream is just beginning. The 20-year-old San Francisco State College student, who left the classroom last year for the hectic pace of tours and personal appearances, said she looks forward to crowning Miss America of 1956.

That chore done, she can devote her full time to her career.

A beauty with brains, Lee Ann knows there is lots of hard work ahead. But she received good critical notices, following one nationally-televised appearance.

The beauty queen said she wants to work on the stage not in the movies. She already has turned down three offers from Hollywood.

Having been Miss America will help her, she said. It already has, financially. The title was worth a $5,000 wardrobe and $50,000 in cash for endorsements and personal appearances.

It also has given her 112,000 miles of travel, and more citations and more keys to cities than she cares to count. Although she has been photographed thousands of times in the past year, she hasn't appeared in a bathing suit since the contest. Pageant rules prohibit bathing suit appearances.

But her friends say all the fame hasn't changed Lee Ann. She lives with her handsome mother, Mrs. Ethel Merriwether, in their modest San Francisco home. She still joins her friends for a soda, or a downtown movie.

Come September, she will crown her successor. But Lee Ann doesn't feel she will give away her future.

"Being Miss America opened a big, wide door for me," she said. Through it, she hopes to walk to stardom on Broadway.

2 Killed in Crash Of Private Plane Near Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Two persons died today when a light, 2-seat plane crashed and burned in a farm field about four miles northwest of here.

Sheriff's deputies identified the pilot as John Carmody, 22, and tentatively listed the passenger as James Jorden, 15. Both bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Dr. Austin Richards, county coroner, said the Jordan boy had arrived at Springfield Municipal Airport and considered taking a plane ride with Carmody.

Police here said they believed the plane came from a nearby airport. Deputies said the plane apparently was stunting before it crashed at the farm of George Edwards. About 1,500 holiday motorists were attracted to the scene.

DURBAN, South Africa, Sept. 4 (AP) — South Africa has banned "Frankenstein," a book written 139 years ago by Mary Shelley, wife of the poet.

Under the ban, any South African owning the book is liable to a fine of 1,000 pounds — $2,800 — or up to five years in jail.

Traffic Injuries For City Show Drop in August

Total number of persons injured or killed in Marion traffic in August was lower than for the same month a year ago, according to monthly summary issued by Police Chief Thomas B. Coon.

In a total of 56 collisions last month one person was killed and eight were injured for a total of nine injured and killed compared with 20 persons injured in 59 collisions in August, 1954.

The one traffic death last month was the second for the year compared with three killed through August of last year. In both years, the traffic deaths resulted from automobile - pedestrian accidents. There were 34 such accidents through the first seven months of last year and 29 for the same period this year. In both years, all those pedestrians not killed were injured in varying degrees.

So far this year the total number of collisions investigated by police has been 399 compared with 479 for the same period last year. Total killed this year was two and last year three. Total injured was 67 last month and 84 in August last year.

COP HELPS GROCER NAB BANDIT. Although police have the situation well in hand, grocer Derk E. Zwart (left) with white apron, still keeps shotgun handy in Chicago. Zwart fired a blast at the two men, lying on sidewalk, after they robbed him of $50. An off-duty policeman, Edwin Broukal, took up chase and apprehended the pair after they abandoned their auto and boarded a bus. He forced them to lie on the sidewalk until reinforcements arrived.

Killed at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4 (AP) — J. Nevin Roberts Jr., 52, president-treasurer of Nevmar, Inc., manufacturers agents, was killed today when his automobile struck a pole off a Cincinnati street. Police said Roberts apparently fell easleep while driving.

Famed Clipper Ship Becomes New Museum

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The last member of the historic Cape Horn clipper fleet lies permanently at rest today, fit as she was the day she was launched 69 years ago.

But it won't be an uninterrupted rest for the old Balclutha, better known as the Pacific Queen. As a "living" maritime museum, the three-masted iron ship's decks will echo the steps of tourists in the twilight of her career.

Under tow, she crossed San Francisco Bay from Oakland where she had undergone extensive overhaul and refitting for a year. Nearly every maritime industry in the Bay area contributed money or facilities to the renovation of the old ship and 18 maritime labor unions donated free labor.

She is the property of the San Francisco Maritime Museum Association.

Renamed

A 56-year-old New Hampshire woman who had been aboard the ship in 1899 rechristened her the Balclutha in berthing ceremonies at Pier 43. She was Mrs. Inda Frances Dunn, daughter of Captain Alfred Durkee, fourth master of the ship.

The ship carried the name Balclutha when she sailed out of Glasgow, Scotland, where she was built in 1886. The 253-foot, 1,862 - ton ship drew her first duties in the lucrative heavy grain trade 'round-the-Horn from California to the United Kingdom. In 1899, she lost her Union Jack registry through sale to three San Francisco companies.

The Balclutha's new owners put her on a lumber run to Australia until 1904, when she joined the Alaska Packers' Association fleet and was renamed Star of Alaska.

On Exhibit

She was among the last sailing ships on the Alaska route and then retired to Alameda Creek in 1929.

Frank Kissinger, a showman, purchased the ship for $5,000,000 in 1934 and exhibited her at West Coast ports under the name Pacific Queen. When he died in 1953, the ship was tied up on the Sausalito mud flats and there was talk of scrapping her.

The San Francisco Maritime Museum Association purchased the ship from Kissinger's widow last July and commenced a restoration program expected to cost $120,000.

Seeks To Take Life

SEOUL (AP) — Bystanders had to prevent a remorseful driver from killing himself after his army truck turned over near Kumhwa, killing a school child and injuring the other 60 picnickers aboard, police said Sunday. Twenty-three of the injured were reported in serious condition.

Mysterious Thief Steals Airport's PA Amplifiers

PARIS, Sept. 4 (AP)—A mysterious theif is causing travelers to miss plane connections at Orly Airport.

Seven times recently, the amplifiers which warn passengers of arrival and departures of planes have been stolen from rest rooms at the airport.

Saturday night police rigged up a microphone to give them warning the next time one of the rest room loudspeakers was tampered with. They listened all night.

Sunday morning the eighth loudspeaker was missing.

Berlin Fashion Leaders in Bid For Old Status

BERLIN (UP) — West Berlin is out to make its fashions as popular as those from Paris and New York.

The city's clothing industry, which before World War II was the largest on the European continent, has made a startling comeback in the six years since the blockade was lifted. Today, some 450 firms employ more than 45,000 persons.

Berlin garment firms last year sold more than $4,000,000 in ready-made clothes to the United States, central Europe, Scandinavia, Great Britain, Canada, Australia and Jordan. They expect to double export sales in 1955.

Total sales, most of them in Western Germany, have more than tripled. This year they are expected to top $175,000,000.

The United States, in its program to help put West Berlin back on its own feet, has poured some $2,500,000 in funds and grants to buy machinery and modernize plants.

A similar sum has been set aside by the U. S. foreign aid administration to cover half of the costs for building a garment center in the heart of downtown Berlin.

The project calls for two large 12 and 16-story houses and several smaller buildings in the immediate vicinity of the city's zoological gardens, not more than a stone - throw from Kurfuerstendamm, Berlin's counterpart of New York's Fifth Avenue.

About one third of the major firms plan to move to the center.

Plans for a second and smaller project, located about a mile away at Nuernberger Platz, are underway. Several bombed-out buildings will have to be removed to make room for a production and administration center.

Berlin's garment industry, unlike that of Paris, does not specialize in expensive models. Its main product is medium-priced ready-to-wear clothes.

Good workmanship helped Berlin's clothing industry win back markets in central and northern Europe, but prospective buyers have told manufacturers to use brighter colors, if they want to reach the fashionable woman in the United States, Britain and Canada.

Exports to the United States still are negligible.

But two firms, the high-quality houses of Heinz Oestergaard and Susanne Erikson, Miss Germany of 1952, have opened a drive for business in Ne Yowrk's Fifth Avenue stores.

It's fun to be followed

(A Statement About Bottle Size)

IT'S NICE to be recognized as the leader. It's flattering to be imitated.

Above all, it's good to learn that others acknowledge that you've been right from the very start.

From the start, Pepsi-Cola has offered you the finest quality in a two-glass 12-oz. bottle. That quality has made it the fastest-growing beverage in the world.

Now comes the news that another well-known cola has just come out with a so-called "king-size" bottle, containing 12 oz., the same quantity as in the standard-size Pepsi bottle you have always known.

We gratefully accept this compliment to our success. In return, now that bottle size is no longer a factor, we suggest you try both colas side by side—Pepsi-Cola and the newcomer's bottle too.

Please try them both and judge by taste.

Labor Day Is for Labor

The only U.S. holiday that did not have its origin in religion, war, or history is Labor Day.

It had its origin in a revolutionary ferment that made the United States unique. The holiday began when the first American workers were asserting their right to band together for the advancement of their mutual interests—a revolutionary idea at the time.

But it has grown into something perplexing—a mixture of its origin in the days when labor unions were on the defensive and the new pattern of social organization that has come into existence in the United States. The two parts of the mixture are not compatible.

It is no longer a revolutionary idea that workers should possess and exercise the right to band together. Unions are no longer in the defensive. But the new pattern of social organization in the United States still has not been grasped.

It bestows the dignity of labor on all citizens who help to produce value, regardless of who they are and what they do. If they produce value, they are workers. They are part of the laboring population of the United States

Some belong to unions. Some do not belong to unions. It makes no more difference in their status as laboring men and women if they belong to unions than it makes if they belong to churches, fraternal organizations, or bowling clubs.

Yet, because Labor Day grew out of the fight of radicals in the early days of labor unions to win recognition for themselves and their followers, the idea persists that Labor Day belongs to unions and particularly to the leaders of unions.

It belongs to all Americans who produce wealth for the common benefit. It is in honor of the dignity of labor in a free society whose members are valued solely for what they can do.

Highway Problem Is Serious

Ohio general highway improvement program depends on income from an extra one-cent tax on each gallon of gasoline and revenue collected under the axle-distance tax formula. These were the two new sources of money provided by the General Assembly in 1953.

If anything happens to the axle-distance tax more than already has happened to it, improvement will come to a standstill. What already has happened is that truckers' opposition has cut its yield to half the expected total and now is threatening to cut it to nothing.

Here is the picture as presented by the Ohio Department of Highways:

"The only state money available for the capital improvement of 12,200 miles of non-bond issue roads is about 16 million dollars. For 88 counties, this represents about $175,000 average per county, or not quite enough to build one mile of good two-lane highway per county per year. If the axle-distance tax does not produce as anticipated in the next two years, part of the Highway Improvement Fund will have to be used to bolster State Highway Construction Council funds to engineer bond issue projects on the select major thoroughfare system. Thus the funds for improvement of 12,200 miles of highway will be further reduced. At the present time it looks like all of the one-cent motor fuel tax and axle distance tax after fiscal 1957 will have to be used to pay bond interest and retirement costs and Highway Improvement Funds may even have to be tapped for this purpose."

In other words, if the opposition knocks out Ohio's axle-distance tax, the state will have no new county roads, unless they can be built without state aid.

Mr. Quill Goes West

"President Quill" is the spokesman for Transport Workers Union in the Pennsylvania Railroad strike that was checkmated by the White House on Thursday.

For many years the name of Michael J. Quill was associated exclusively with things that tied up transportation in the world's most crowded metropolis — New York City.

As an immigrant from Ireland, Quill helped build one of New York's subway lines. He then helped to organize the Transport Workers Union of America, which developed enough strength to make New Yorkers and their transit authorities eat out of its hand.

In due time, Quill became president of the union, which in due time affiliated with the CIO, thereby making him a vice president of that organization. But Mr. Quill continued to be a figure of controversy only in New York City, where he operated as a kind of transportation czar.

Now, he is moving west.

His tactics are familiar to everybody affected by tie-ups in New York City transportation. He thrives on commotion and strife in both transportation and politics. He is the most colorful leader since the hey-day of John L. Lewis and like Lewis he is not particular about the methods he uses to get what he is after, which is more power for Michael J. Quill.

It may be taken for granted that his name will become familiar now that he has demonstrated he has acquired enough power to tie up the Pennsylvania Railroad and force the White House to take emergency measures to keep him from doing what he was perfectly willing and utterly capable of doing — call a railroad strike.

Still Long Way To Go

By Richard Fryklund

U.S. Air Defense Has Come Far Since 1951

COLORADO SPRINGS — Four years ago something novel in American military forces was launched: A service devoted solely to defense.

Today, that defense is in the hands of the Continental Air Defense Command, a joint enterprise of the Air Force, Army, Navy and Marine Corps. Compared with the "nothing" defense of 1951, today's CONAD is truly a marvel.

But in those four years, Russia also has come a long way. The Reds probably have stockpiled enough atomic bombs to hit every major target in the United States; they have developed the even deadlier hydrogen bomb and they have put into operation long-range bombers better than ours.

That's not the end of it. The Russians are developing "intercontinental ballistic missiles" which will carry hydrogen warheads through outer space at several thousand miles an hour directly from Russia to targets in this country. No airplane could hope to intercept and destroy one.

Can the Continental Air Defense Command cope with today's potential jet-hydrogen air attack?

Will it be able to defend this country when the ICBM is ready?

Not even the generals at CONAD's headquarters claim to know the answers.

AN EXAMINATION of our defense and Russia's offense can produce at least some tentative conclusions.

Perhaps the best way to describe the state of our defenses is to enumerate the steps that would have been taken if Russia had launched an attack last night. Here is a fictionalized version of what might have happened.

American Intelligence would probably have noticed an unusual amount of activity in Russia, so, to be on the safe side, CONAD already would have ordered a "condition of readiness."

The command thus was at top strength when a Navy "picket" ship off the California coast picked up some strange blips on its radarscopes. Several planes were flying high and fast, headed for the mainland.

In seconds it was established that no friendly planes should be in that area. In two minuutes jet interceptors were off the runways and heading out to sea.

Word of the unidentified aircraft was flashed to the regional defense command post and to the continental headquarters at Colorado Springs.

Officers at these posts had before them huge maps upon which the location and course of the strange planes were plotted; a "tote" board which gave in a nutshell the information known about the unidentified planes and the action taken to intercept them, and another board showing all the planes available to that command and the degree of readiness of each.

SOON IDENTIFICATION was positive. An interceptor from Thule, Greenland, had spotted a jet bomber winging 600 miles an hour across the Arctic wastes—a Russian bomber. The word was flashed to Colorado Springs.

"Red alert" was ordered: enemy attack is imminent. Air raid sirens soon went off in possible target cities.

From the command post and the regional centers interceptors were directed toward the hostile planes. The pattern of the attack and defense could be seen at a glance on the big boards. The planes approaching from the west were fanning out, perhaps headed for the Strategic Air Command fields in western and southern United States. The attackers in the north seemed to be headed for the northeastern industrial centers.

CONAD fighter squadrons were located so they could defend these targets, but they were spread thinly, and there were some important areas still unprotected.

Still, the teams of ground radar man, airborne radar observer and pilot did a good job of intercepting the high-flying planes. Attackers who hugged the ground could evade the radar, however, and they made night interception exceedingly difficult.

WHEN AN INTERCEPTOR plane fixed its radar on the enemy, the chances of a kill were great. Without taking his eyes from his instruments, a pilot, directed by his radar observer, could catch the enemy. An automatic fire-control system shot his rockets. By the scores, the rockets swarmed into the bombers.

Attackers which made it to a few miles from target cities ran into the Army's Nike stations. These guided missiles "homed" on the attack planes and blasted them out of the sky — provided the targets were not flying too fast and did not have equipment which fouled up the Nike homing device.

Certainly some of the enemy bombers in this imaginary raid would have got through. What percentage wou'd depend on countless variable factors which cannot be calculated in advance.

BUT WHATEVER the percentage getting through, it would be far smaller if CONAD were equipped throughout with supersonic interceptors, if its guided missiles were more modern, more plentiful and located farther out from the target areas, if the radar net were completed in depth and if the Ground Observer Corps were at full strength.

All those ifs add up to an inadequate air defense system as of now. At present the prospects for an effective system are not bright. For, as CONAD gets bigger, the Russian offense gets bigger, too. And the Reds' pace of improvement is believed by many to be outstripping ours.

Civilian critics in and out of the government believe considerations of economy are keeping America's air defense—and offense — behind the competition.

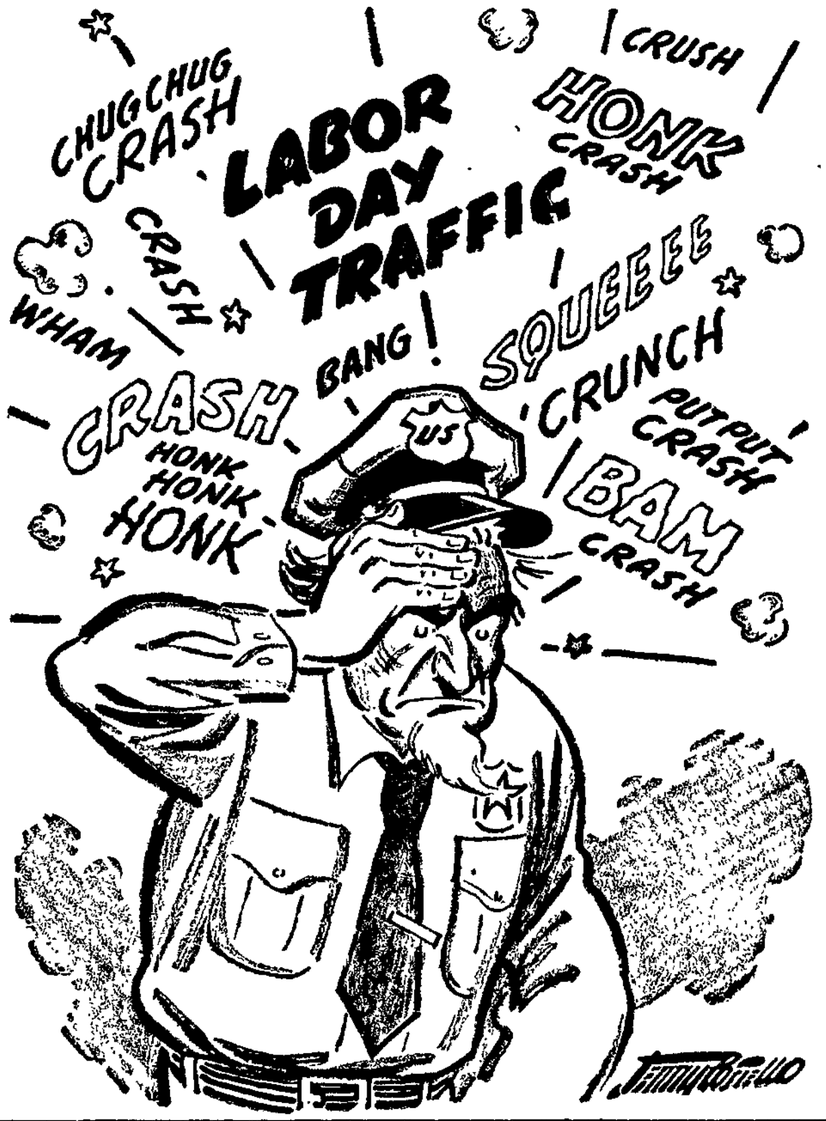
Dreaded Headache



GOP Not Seeking Successor to Ike

By Betty Beale

WASHINGTON — "Nobody around here is eligible for sainthood except the boss," said "Assistant President" Sherman Adams, sitting in his beautiful White House office and leaning restfully back in his comfortable leather chair.

A trim, small-statured, wiry man with gray hair, fine clearcut features and eyes as blue as the melting snows of his own New Hampshire — this is the man who's supposed to be the power behind the throne.

This is the man who gets credit for really running the nation, or who gets cursed for blocking politicos in their tracks. During his first two years in Washington it was common talk that he had only icewater in his veins.

Why did people say that? "They didn't know me," he said. Do you think that?"

Heavens, no! And I have heard just the contrary from the people in your office," this reporter replied.

He has an extremely flattering way with women. Without paying a single gushy compliment, he manages to make them feel like pretty, young things while at the same time talking with them on a level of honesty and directness that is a credit to their intelligence.

BUT TO GET BACK to the "Sainthood." Everybody makes mistakes but after you have been in the government very long you acquire some of the landmarks so you know how to steer away from the shoals," observed Adams in answer to the question how does he determine what to decide without going to the boss.

Does he call himself "Assistant President?" "That's an exaggeration," he said. Well then, how does he describe his job?

"Oh, goodness, that's a hard question to answer." He thought for a while.

"Well, I suppose the easiest and most obvious answer is that over this desk, in preparation for decisions by the President, go a vast variety of unrelated matters from the President's nominations to staff recommendations on political and executive action which cut across departmental lines."

"Obviously the president is consulted about every appointment, every major decision, but there are a host of decisions he doesn't have to make. This office is primarily to take off his shoulders all the work a staff can possibly do."

HOW MUCH AUTHORITY does he have whether Ike's here or away?

"Never admit that," said the square-jawed man whose name is magic out of government circles. "I always say I don't have any. Staff members are not supposed to have any authority."

On the other hand it's his job to "do the thing the President would do if he was making the decision on the identical subject." Simple, what?

He's been doing that for so long that over a year ago he told someone that Ike's decision to run would depend on three things — physical condition, world condition, home condition. The President said almost exactly the same thing earlier this month. Any man's decision would depend on those things, pointed out Adams.

Only the President emphasized the need for new young men to come to the fore.

Does that mean the GOP is looking around for a successor to the President in case he doesn't run again?

"I am afraid the answer to that is in the negative," answered Adams in all honesty.

There's no question but that Republicans expect Ike to run again, though his No. 1 assistant said, "The President would be only too eager to relinquish the job."

He shoved a clipping from France's Le Monde across the highly polished surface of his desk. Praising the peaceful impact of Eisenhower's dignity and honesty on the Geneva conference, it ended, "In the coming years he can play a leading role in reconciling the two cold war camps."

"Maybe that's the answer to the question," he said.

If he couldn't quit when things were peaceful though, he certainly couldn't quit if there were a crisis, could he?" I asked. "No," admitted the man who should know.

Then a series of queries:

Q. How many times do you see the President in a day?

A. "Everybody asks that. I would say that the number of times you see the President would be in inverse ratio to your usefulness. I never go to him unless a problem is of sufficient importance to need his decision."

Q. Why didn't you accept Senator Kefauver's invitation to appear before the committee investigating the Dixon-Yates controversy?

A "It's impossible to go before a committee without being questioned as to matters respecting the advice or decisions of the chief executive. It would be an intrusion on the executive powers. Thomas Jefferson was the first President to make a declamation of the clear line of demarcation of powers."

Q. Will Ike carry the South if he runs again?

A. "Some states in the South. But nobody expects him to make a clean sweep of the South as a whole."

Q. Will Maine go Republican next time?

A. "Certainly, insofar as the national election is concerned, but whether it gets a Republican governor to replace the Democratic one depends on who's put up."

Q. What do you think of Clare Luce or Margaret Chase Smith being nominated as vice president?

A. "They are both good people. Both deserve national recognition. I don't know. And I'm not going to get out on that limb."

Q. Will you stay on here if the President is re-elected?

A. "That's his prerogative. . . . Every one here would want to continue to help him if we could."

Q. You — who won a unanimous vote in a Democratic district to the New Hampshire state legislature, and later became governor—do you have any plans to run for the United States Senate?

A. "That's a trappy question. Do you know how loaded that question is?"

On a wall of his pale green office hangs an oil landscape signed "Pebble." Who was the artist? "My wife," said Sherman Adams. "Didn't you know? On the campaign train I was called 'The Rock' and Rachel, 'the pebble'." But there was no granite in his smile.

From Our Readers

To The Star:

From the time that man was driven from the Garden of Eden, he was rebellious of unfair treatment and force was used to keep him in check. He was an actual slave, a chattel, with no choice as to his occupation, master, or whatever he was paid for his work, his manner of living and his subsistence. He was a spoil of war or was bought outright.

He served in the armies of his masters and rulers and sometimes secured his freedom, with restrictions, for certain services.

Centuries passed, the dawn of what is called civilization came and then laws and human kindness recognized him as the producer of all tangible wealth and recognized that he was able to think for himself and manage his own affairs.

Then he was given the chance to secure an education or training to do things better and improve his own way of living, to vote as he understood for a voice in government or to criticize it, and to acquire property or even become wealthy or an employer. In addition, he was given the chance to live safely, work safely and spend his hours off the job safely as he pleased or as he was able.

Coming to the point, Labor Day is his day and he should spend it safely, for himself and others. He should observe good judgment and be able to return to work for more of the good things he has the chance to produce.

Men Know the Score

By TRUMAN TWILL

Having admired the obvious qualifications of Hillevi Rombin of Sweden to be Miss Universe of 1955, I feel like repeating a point of view that gets blanked out each summer by beauty-queen publicity.

Women say frankly they like men to be a little ugly because it makes them more attractive—and it is my considered opinion that men feel the same way about women.

They will drool over pictures of the beauties and give them popeyed admiration if they have the privilege of seeing them in person.

They will make invidious comparisons with females of lesser pulchritude and cause these ugly ducklings to weep bitter tears into their pillows. But the hard truth is that men are smart enough to know women can be too beautiful for their own good and pin their highest hopes on members of the opposite sex who must rely on something more subtle than photogenic faces and figgers.

Failure to understand this is obviously the reason why so many photogenic lovelies in Hollywood turn out to be disappointments as steady company and are only good for being seen with in public, to excite the envy of other men.

As J. M. Barrie wrote in "What Every Woman Knows," the payoff is not beauty but charm—that "kind of a bloom on a woman" which is the secret of every woman's popularity, whether or not she also happens to be beautiful.

The chances are, though, that if she is beautiful she will have been spoiled by it. She will not have had to work as hard to develop her charm. And because nothing drives out good qualities like an oversupply of vanity, she may not have any charm at all.

Every beauty-queen season I repeat this by way of solace. There is no reason why Miss Universe of 1955 cannot be as charming as she is beautiful; perhaps she is. There is no reason why Miss America cannot have both kinds of attractiveness; sometimes she has had both.

But most women, like most men, wouldn't get to the quarter final of any beauty contest where the judges were using the usual standards of conformation. So what?

Men don't hold it against them. They count it in their favor. And women should realize why this is so. It is because men know the score.

They do not want their sweethearts, wives or the opposite sex in general to be breath-takingly beautiful. There is nothing for the plain women of this world to be jealous of.

Diversification Marches On

"Be careful or you'll get run over by some of those bulldozers," said the Man Who Built A Better Mousetrap. "They are building new PATHS TO MY DOOR."

"Are you selling that many mousetraps?" we asked.

"Oh no But I no longer limit myself to mousetraps. I've gone in for mergers and diversification. I am now building so many things I not only have to have more paths but more DOORS."

"What's that door just below us?" we asked.

"That's the door to our newly acquired National Catfood Corporation. I figured that where there are mice there are cats. The two businesses are interrelated. That door on Pathway Number Three leads to the Associated Cheese Products Company, with which we merged last week."

"And that door over yonder?" we inquired.

"It's the door to the quarters of the American Timber Refining Company. Since wood is used in mousetraps I thought it good business to affiliate with a major lumber outfit. That path over to the left will lead to the door of the Great Northern Wire Corporation. It will make all my trap springs."

-:-

A HUGE TRUCK whizzed by and the Man Who Built A Better Mousetrap continued: "That truck is moving in with some of the equipment of Foremost Plastic Products Company. It makes PLASTIC HOLES FOR PLASTIC MOUSETRAPS. I took it over in a proxy fight."

"Of course you have acquired some chemical companies," we remarked.

"Every growing company takes over at least one chemical corporation," he admitted. "You'll have to excuse me. I have an appointment with a path-building engineer. I must examine plans for paths to a possible chain store, camera factory, sheet tin mill, bear trap, golf ball, paper flower shop and synthetic textile mill."

"It's all a little complicated," we remarked.

"Yes indeed," was the reply. "Think of the advertising problem alone. I've got to figure out how to become known, not as the Man Who Built A Better Mousetrap but as the Diversification Genius who builds a Better TV Set, Air Conditioning Unit, Icebox, Orange Drink, Bedsheet, Nylon Stocking, Hardtop Auto, and Spinning Reel!!!"

Breach of Promise

SINGAPORE (AP)—Six pretty Malay girl receptionists with easy smiles and charm are making travel more pleasant on the Malayan Railways. But trouble is brewing.

The railway traffic operating union complains that the management had promised that present employes would have first choice when vacancies came to be filled.

Instead, the union charges, the management broke that understanding by appointing the six girl receptionists at stations in Singapore and Kuala Lumpur "whose only connection with the railway was that they had probably traveled once or twice by train."

Said Committee Chairman Frank D. Moor:

"No one knows who they are, but someone said they are a former governor and his wife and we figured we ought to save them."

Cleveland Jolts Chisox Twice To Take League Lead

Tribe on Top by Half-Game As Yankees Trim Senators

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians took over first place in the hot American League pennant race Sunday by sweeping a double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 5-3 and 5-3, on Ralph Kiner's double in the first game and homers by Al Rosen and Al Smith in the second.

Chicago was knocked from first to third place, 1½ games behind. The New York Yankees remained a half game out in second place by virtue of an 8-3 victory over the Washington Senators.

Sunday's double bill was the climax of a four-game series in which Chicago won the opener 5-1 but lost the second contest 5-1.

Credit for the opening victory went to Bob Lemon, who held the Sox to five hits as he worked the first seven innings for his 16th triumph against eight defeats. Mike Garcia won the second, going 5 2-3 innings and giving up eight hits as he marked his 10th victory against 12 losses.

In both games, Ray Narleski relieved the Cleveland starters and held the Sox scoreless after he took over. Dick Donovan was charged with the second game loss.

Cleveland got off to a fast start in the nightcap as Rosen pounded out his 19th home run of the season with Gene Woodling on base on a walk and Larry Doby on with a single.

The White Sox closed the gap to 3-1 in the fourth. Jim Rivera singled, went to third on a single by Bob Nieman and scored on Jim Brideweser's foul.

Smith's homer, his 21st, gave Cleveland another run in the bottom half of the same inning.

In the sixth pinch hitter Ron Northey pounded out his first homer of the season and scored Walt Dropo, who had singled, to bring his mates within a run of the Indians.

But Cleveland was not to be denied the double victory, adding an insurance run in the seventh on a single by Woodling, an intentional pass to Ferris Fain and a single by Jim Hegan.

In the first game, Kiner's double in the sixth inning drove in two runs and proved the deciding factor.

Chicago starter Connie Johnson was chased in the fourth inning as he blew a 3-0 lead by issuing three walks, a single and a double to the rallying Indians. The winning run, on Kiner's double, was in the sixth off reliefer Morrie Martin, charged with the loss.

Two Prexy Gridders Injured In Scrimmage Against Upper

Two major injuries to Harding gridders marked the local high school football scene today as the Prexies and St. Mary awaited the switch to one-a-day practice sessions with the start of school Tuesday.

Bill Smith, Harding's top halfback candidate, was added to the growing list of injuries and losses when he suffered a slight fracture of the collarbone in Harding's scrimmage game at Upper Sandusky Saturday.

Smith sustained the injury on the first play of the scrimmage when he was hit on the sidelines by an Upper Sandusky tackler after reeling off a run of about 15 yards. Harding coach Gordon Larson believes Smith will be out at least four weeks and says that Smith's loss is "definitely going to hurt us."

Also injured in the scrimmage, but apparently less seriously, was Russell James, Smith's replacement at halfback against Upper Sandusky. James, No. 2 man at right half behind Smith, sustained a dislocated knee as Upper returned a punt later in the game and it is indefinite how long he will be out.

An intra-squad scrimmage Saturday morning wound up the preschool workouts for St. Mary's gridders.

Coach Ray Robbins busily attempted to correct his teams' faults in scrimmages with Galion and Upper Sandusky as pass defense and brushing up of offense was stressed.

The Irish are free of injuries as they prepare for their next action, the season opener at Kenton less than two weeks away.

With Smith and James on the disabled list at Harding, Larson confessed that Tom Hazen, on his showing in the Upper Sandusky scrimmage, was the No. 1 left halfback candidate ahead of Bill Pickens, Elijah Green and Dan Davis. James, when Larson said "ran hard" and "looked real good" against Upper, held down the left halfback spot prior to his injury.

Larson remarked, following the scrimmage in which Harding was outscored four touchdowns to two, that "I've had more injuries in 10 days here than in any one year at Akron."

"Harding showed signs of driving," Larson commented. The Prexies scored both their TD's after a pair of long drives. However, he added he "still hasn't got a concerted effort out of each and every one" and explained that the biggest project at the present time was "getting them together as a team and not as 11 individuals." Larson said the squad "lacked leaders."

He went on to explain that "our line is not hitting out of there as they should" and said it seems "we need a firecracker under all of them." Larson said Harding's defense "at times looked pretty good" and went on to explain that the "pass defense bogged down a couple of times" and that tackling was "poor."

Larson commented that "right now we are far from being a ball club" and said that Harding's inexperienced line "needed a lot of work." The coach used many of his second-stringers against Upper on defense and played every member of the squad to "give every boy experience."

The Proxy coach said he was "going to make some changes" in the Harding lineup. One was made Saturday as Larson announced he was moving Harold Jones, quarterback, and probably the fastest man on the Harding squad, to a halfback slot. He said he would alternate Jones between both positions and have Jed Middleton and Marlo Barrett fight for the signal calling spot.

Use of many underclassmen was promised by Larson. He named Vaughn Williams, Dick Fleming, Dave Williams, Dan Davis, Dick Russell, Ray Huckaba, Bill Martin and Bob Klingel as sophomores who could break into the Harding lineup this season.

Harding has three practice sessions prior to its preview with Norwalk here Friday night. A scrimmage game is scheduled with Galion Saturday morning here.

Gilliam Blasts Homer To Give Brooks Victory

BROOKLYN (AP)—Junior Gilliam hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the eighth inning to give the Brooklyn Dodgers an uphill 6-5 victory Sunday and a sweep of the three-game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Dodgers were trailing 5-4 with one out in their half of the eighth when George Shuba, pinch hitting for Clem Labine, dropped a Texas League single into center.

Gilliam followed with his seventh homer to give Labine his 12th victory and hang the 12th defeat upon Max Surkont. It was the 50th appearance of the year for Labine who hasn't permitted a run in his last 13 innings.

The pennant - bound Dodgers grabbed a 3-0 lead after three innings off starter Ronnie Kline but Pittsburgh bounced back with a pair of runs in the fourth to knock out southpaw Johnny Podres. George Freese's 10th homer in the fourth ended a Pittsburgh scoring drought that had lasted through 22 innings and snapped a 24-scoreless inning skein by Brooklyn pitchers.

Tribute to the Babe

BROOKLYN (AP) — "I hope nobody ever breaks Ruth's record."

These were the emphatic words of the Dodgers' Duke Snider whom many baseball experts think has a good chance of breaking the mark (60 homers in one season) within the next few years.

His teammate, pitcher Carl Erskine, said: "I feel the same way, too. But I'm afraid that some day some greedy club owner will rig the park so that it will be broken."

Snider nodded his head and remarked: "Of course if anyone ever does hit more than 60 I would like it to be me. But I'd hate to see that record go. Ruth means too much to this game. His mark should stand forever."

Program Ends Today

Straight-Heat Victories Feature Richwood Races

About 3,000 persons watched the opening session of harness races at the Richwood Fair Sunday afternoon. The racing program will close this afternoon with three events slated at 2 p.m.

Straight heat victories were recorded in all six races Sunday. The first division of the 2-year-old and 30 trot, was won by Tara Excellency, owned by George Battles of Richwood. The horse recorded times of 2:19 and 2:21.

In the second division of the 2-year-old and 30 trot, Worthy Choice, owned by Roy and Earl Fry of Sardinia, came in first with times of 2:17 3-5 and 2:19. Volo Prince, entered by E. G. Loar of Plain City, turned in times of 2:13 and 2:17 2-5 to win both heats of the third race, a 2:24 trot.

Burrey was thrown to the ground and suffered a broken arm. He was treated by a doctor at the track, then removed to his home.

The fifth race also saw another spill as a strap on the harness of Widow Tramp, driven by Jimmy Gott snapped. Gott tumbled out of the sulky, but was uninjured.

Cubs Nip Cards 4-3 With 3-Run Spurt in Eighth

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs scored three runs in the eighth inning to beat St. Louis, 4-3, for a 2-1 series edge before 13,774 Sunday.

Willard Schmidt was charged with his fifth loss as the Cubs blended three of their five hits with two walks in the winning eighth.

Walker Cooper's pinch double accounted for the first run as Dee Fondy singled for the second and Frankie Baumholtz's sacrifice fly produced the winning marker.

Baumholtz's two-out double in the seventh broke up Schmidt's up-to-then perfect game, and Frankie scored Chicago's first run on Ernie Banks' double to deep right-center.

Little Wars

By George Sokolsky

Little wars often lead to big wars if ways are not found to limit them. The Indian "peaceful" war on Portugal over the Colony of Goa, the Moroccan revolt against France, the Greco-Turkish - British crisis over Cyprus are dangerous areas of conflict, which raise issues over small countries that involve great states and can cause major explosions.

SOKOLSKY

Goa has been a Portuguese colony since 1510. Very little remains of the great Portuguese empire that once included Brazil, Goa, and its counterpart off the coast of China, Macao, is different from most Asiatic colonies in that the Portuguese and the natives intermarried and produced a new race whose cultural basis is Roman Catholicism. There is no anti-Portuguese movement in Goa, no desire among its people to become part of India. In effect, India is utilizing unorthodox methods of warfare to occupy and absorb the territory of another nation. True, the Indian government has not employed shot and shell, but its methods of mass movements can be as devastating.

THE REVOLT OF the Moroccans against France is an inevitable concomitant of the failure of France in Indochina. An empire can only stand as long as it has the physical power to hold the conquered countries on its periphery. Nationalism is rampant in Asia and Africa at the present time and while powerful nations may put down revolts, as long as they are not so powerful as to convince nationalistic groups that they can hold them in any circumstances, there will be new revolts. France lost face by the defeat in Indochina and therefore other nationalistic elements in the French empire will seek to free themselves.

The Moroccans are not only nationalistic but they are Moslems which means that a potent ideological factor enters into their conflict with Christian France. But is France any longer a Christian country? Do percentages enter into such a question? Could France in Moslem eyes have become a Godless country?

In the United States, we are prone to ignore ideological factors. We think in terms of events and actions, which are really secondary and immaterial in the current conflicts. Moslems choose not to be governed by those who are not Moslems and unless the Europeans have the physical strength to hold what is not their own, they must expect such troubles as the Moroccan revolt.

CYPRUS IS an even more vexed problem. It is a British colony peopled by a very mixed population, about 80 per cent of whom speak Greek and the rest Turkish. English is also spoken as a lingua franca. The island not only lies close to Turkey but could act as a cork to bottle up the Gulf of Alexandretta. Greece and Turkey are allies in NATO and in the Balkan Alliance and therefore have no reason to quarrel. The Turks prefer the status quo; that is, that Cyprus should remain a British colony.

It is really doubtful that the sound leadership of Greece feels that this is the time for a conflict over Cyprus, but nationalistic public opinion has been so aroused in both Greece and Cyprus that no man in public life would dare at this moment to state in the open that he is against the immediate annexation of Cyrpus to Greece. Yet men in high places know that such an annexation could lead to a war between Turkey and Greece and that Great Britain would be involved as the actual possessor of Cyprus.

Furthermore, if either Great Britain or Turkey appealed to NATO, the whole of the western world would be in this thing, including the United States which guaranteed a western European status quo through NATO.

ALSO TITO would have something to say as a member of the Balkan Alliance which would be destroyed by such a conflict and therefore lessen the position of Tito in the eyes of the Russians.

This, then, is a bad situation. In the United States, it becomes complicated by the large and influential Greek minority who are not without a voice in American politics. Like Jewish influence in relation to Israel-Arab controversies, the Greeks have votes in the United States, whereas the Turks do not have votes—none to count. From the standpoint of domestic political realism, the administration in Washington must find this Greco-Turkish situation unpleasant because this country will support Great Britain and therefore Turkey. All of it spells trouble.

Graham Is Persuaded To Return

CLEVELAND (AP)—Otto Graham heeded the pleas of Coach Paul Brown and signed up with the Cleveland Browns professional football team yesterday.

Graham, star quarterback with the Browns since 1946, retired after last season, but promised he'd come back "if I'm needed."

After losing exhibition games to the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams, Graham was convinced he was needed.

No salary figure was announced. Last year he got about $21,000.

Coach Brown said he needed a "bigger and stronger" quarterback than George Ratterman, Graham's understudy for three seasons, who stepped into the position this year. The Browns lost Bobby Freeman, a rookie quarterback from Auburn, by a court injunction obtained by the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian League. Their other prospective quarterback, Babe Parilli, is in service.

Graham will work out with the team tomorrow, and probably will play Saturday night in an exhibition against the Detroit Lions in Cleveland Stadium.

Giants Score 4 In 8th To Beat Phils, Take 3rd

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Two walks, a hit batsman, Billy Gardner's two-run single and Don Mueller's two-run triple scored four runs in the ighth inning and enabled the New York Giants to turn back the Philadelphia Phillies 7-4 at Connie Mack Stadium Sunday. The victory moved the Giants into third place a few percentage points ahead of the Phillies.

The Giants took a 2-0 lead off starting Philadelphia pitcher Ron Negray in the first inning on Mueller's single, a passed ball, a walk to Willie Mays and Whitey Lockman's two run single.

Stan Lopata hammered a three run homer off Giants' starter Ruben Gomez to make it 3-2 in the Phillies half of the first. Lopata collapsed after circling the bases and was removed to Temple University Hospital where his condition is reported "satisfactory."

An infield hit by Gomez, an error by shortstop Roy Smalley and Mueller's single accounted for another Giants' run and made it 3-3 in the second. Jim Greengrass' 11th homer sent the Phillies in front 4-3 in the sixth. Then came the Giants' eighth to make relief pitcher Jak Meyer the loser and Hoyt Wilhelm the winner.

Tigers Collect 20 Hits, Take 17-1 Decision

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Detroit Tigers shelled four Kansas City pitchers for 20 hits, including three home runs, and a 17-1 victory Sunday.

Righthander Ned Garver pitched a 7-hitter for Detroit in scoring his 12th victory against 13 losses. He also helped the lusty Tiger hitting attack with a home run and single. Starter Vic Raschi lost his sixth game. He's won four.

Third baseman Ray Boone drove in five runs with a homer, double and single, raising his RBI total for the season to 102. Frank House also homered for the Tigers. Detroit's big inning was the third when seven runs poured across on seven hits, two walks and a passed ball.

Braves Sink Reds 5-2 on Two Homers

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves throttled Cincinnati 5-2 Sunday on a pair of home runs by Henry Aaron and one by Eddie Mathews in a game played under protest by the Redlegs from the first inning.

Birdie Tebbetts, Reds manager, lodged his protest on a call by umpire Augue Donatelli at second, claiming interference by Braves runner Billie Bruton. Tebbetts claimed Bruton interfered with second baseman Johnny Temple on a grounder.

Before the frame was over, the Braves cashed two runs off starter Johnny Klippstein on Aaron's first circuit. They added two more off Klippstein in the third to send him down to his ninth loss.

Chet Nichols went all the way before a crowd of 22,888 to record victory No. 9. He has lost six. Aaron and Wally Post, who homered in a losing cause, each had three hits and drove in their 10th runs of the season. Aaron now has 27 homers, Post 35 and Mathews 36.

Yankees Whip Nats To Remain Half-Game Out

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees defeated the Washington Senators 8-3 Sunday but remained in second place a half game behind the Cleveland Indians who swept a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox.

Mickey Mantle's 37th home run, with two mates aboard in the first inning, paved the way for Bob Turley's 14th triumph.

Two three-run innings—the first and fifth—helped Turley register his 14th triumph of the year but it took a sterling bit of relief pitching by Whitey Ford to preserve his victory. Ford took over in the eighth with runners on first and second and two out and retired the last four batters in order.

Sammy White Leads Boston To 5-4 Victory

BALTIMORE (AP)—Catcher Sammy White pounded three singles and a double to sponsor a 13-hit attack Sunday as the Red Sox remained in the running for the American League pennant, dealing the Baltimore Orioles a 5-to-4 defeat before 14,422 spectators.

Ready To Start

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — It's a pretty fair bet that when the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League start thinking about a starting lineup that George Preas will be available. Labor Day 1955

By Sinclair Weeks

Because Labor Day is officially dedicated to the working man, Victor Riesel asked Secretary of Commerce Weeks for an analysis of the economic state of the nation.

WASHINGTON

Crowded stores, vacation resorts and highways indicate that the American people this Labor Day are enjoying the greatest period of over-all prosperity in history. If we don't rock the economic boat, 1955 should be an even better year than the boom year 1953.

Approximately 65 million people now have jobs. Over 57 million are employed in non-farm enterprises such as manufacturing, mining, construction, transportation and trade, breaking all previous records. Average weekly earnings of factory production workers in July were at an all-time high of $75.76. This figure is $4.84 above that of a year ago.

True, there are still some people without steady employment but happily this number is growing less. In 1939, for example, 17.2 per cent of the civilian labor force was unemployed. In July of this year the percentage dropped to 3.7 per cent. That certainly is progress in creating jobs.

-:-

OUR CURRENT OVER - ALL prosperity results from stimulating many parts of the economy. As examples: Tax cuts and record personal income increase people's buying power. Personal security is advanced by measures that help people cope with the hazards of unemployment, illness and old age. Tax incentives to investment and sound monetary policies encourage business expansion—and hence job expansion.

Sound credit policies stimulate home building. Necessary public works have a favorable impact on business and employment.

Not just one but all of these many aids help create an atmosphere favorable to economic activity. It is this "bundle of benefits" that makes today's prosperity so vigorous, so much more widely shared, and so conducive of hope for the rest of the year.

HAD IT NOT BEEN for administration policies that heighten business confidence, this record prosperity would not have been possible. Because we have an administration whose ideas and acts stimulate prosperity, workers have steady jobs and more assurance of continued employment and well-being.

If businessmen were afraid of what government might do to upset the economic apple cart, they would pull in their horns — and whenever they cut back on purchasing materials or on capital investment, then unemployment crops up all the way from store to mine. But if they think the future looks bright, businessmen step up their activities. As a consequence, workers are kept on jobs and new people, including school graduates, are hired all the way along the line.

Businessmen know that the Eisenhower administration has junked controls, eliminated much federal competition, reduced the cost of government, made the biggest tax cut in history, kept down the cost of living and is advancing toward a balanced budget.

THESE STEPS give confidence to businessmen. So with optimism in their hearts they not only are engaged in great advertising and selling campaigns but they report that they plan to spend more money for new plants and equipment in the third quarter of 1955 than in all history. Those new selling campaigns and new factory buildings and tools all spell more jobs.

The President also has a program to spur the construction of homes, schools, hospitals, ships, airports and highways.

Take the President's new great highway program as a case in point: It can benefit labor in many ways. Thousands more "on-the-site" workers will be added to those already on road construction projects.

They will need great quantities of materials and equipment, making jobs for miners, lumbermen, cement and steel workers, machine builders and countless others employed in architecture, engineering, planning and administrative offices.

THESE WORKERS will then have money to spend in stores and to use in purchasing autos, homes, washing machines, boats, travel tickets, etc.—further stimulating employment in all sorts of fields. Finished highways will open new industrial, service trade and real estate developments, in turn starting new cycles of employment. And national security and motor pleasure will be enhanced.

Great opportunities for progress are ahead if this nation keeps going in the right direction. We have successfully banished the fear of depression. We must guard against inflation, reckless speculation, unsound consumer credit policies, and other dangers to a sound economy—including quack economic medicine.

WE MUST CONTINUE to give our private enterprise system the encouragement from government and the help from labor, business, consumer and other segments. If we do, then private enterprise can keep on raising the standard of living and spreading prosperity around.

Because our economic system is strong and healthy we have both adequate national defense and prosperity. This is an important factor in keeping the free world free and in advancing the peace for which we all hope and pray.

Happy Labor Day!

NEW YORK

This is Labor Day, a holiday for all those who do America's work.

And everybody is off having a wonderful time except —

HAL BOYLE

The cops on the beat,

Firemen,

Motion picture operators,

Telephone girls,

Utility plant workers,

Subway track walkers,

Bus drivers,

And pickpockets.

Yes, everybody has a grand feeling of freedom except —

Bartenders,

Busboys,

Chambermaids,

Airplane pilots,

Bellhops,

And mothers.

OH SURE, everybody is blissfully relaxing from the daily routine except —

Performing bears and other teevee stars,

Train crews,

Lifeguards,

Night club orchestras,

Waiters and watchmen,

Dairy cows.

And the men who give them a hand.

What a gay day, indeed, it is for everybody except —

Druggists,

Ice cream cart entrepreneurs,

Delicatessen owners,

Chinese restaurant keepers,

Hatcheck girls,

Panhandlers,

Street cleaners.

—:—

AND MEN who make a career of taking small dogs for an airing.

Even the escalators in the department stores have a full day off. Who doesn't except —

Wireless operators on ships at sea,

Nurses, hospital internes, and

Baseball players, racehorses and jockeys.

Weather forecasters,

And me?

The millions at leisure owe a debt of thanks to the hundreds of thousands who make this day of liberty possible by staying on the job themselves.

Why not repay them with a three-second period of silent gratitude? Let's not just talk about it. Let's do it. Right now!

Happy Labor Day, everybody!
